Crash Course - Melissa Jacquart

Utilitarianism is an outcome-based morality focused on the "greatest happiness principle." This states that a morally good decision produces lots of happiness, or pleasure, and decreases pain, or displeasure.

Crash Course Philosophy: Ethics: Utilitarianism

Crash course makes the same mistake as many on reddit (and indeed the wider 'net), in that it assumes the discipline of philosophy to be universally accessible, and indeed simple to comprehend. Consequently I'd imagine the greatest impact this particular sub-series is going to have is energising even more the rampant pseudointellectualism and laziness which typically ensues under the namesake 'philosophy'.

the course of development into moral maturity. Over the course of the text I™ve tried to outline the continuity of thought that leads from the historical roots of philosophy to a few of the diverse areas of inquiry that continue to make significant contributions to our understanding of ourselves and the world we live in.

An Introduction to Philosophy - Bellevue College

To accompany 'Introduction to Philosophy', we are pleased to announce a tie-in book from Routledge entitled 'Philosophy for Everyone'. This course companion to the 'Introduction to Philosophy' course was written by the Edinburgh Philosophy team expressly with the needs of MOOC students in mind.
